INSTITUTE OF CONSTRUCTION
CLAIMS PRACTITIONERS

CORPORATE MEMBERSHIP BROCHURE

INTRODUCTION

Membership of the Institute of Construction Claims Practitioners (ICCP) is available to qualifying companies and consultancy practices on a Corporate Membership basis.

This brochure explains the requirements for corporate membership, the different packages available to Corporate Members, the benefits of becoming a Corporate Member and how companies should apply.

MEMBERSHIP REQUIREMENTS

In order to qualify as a Corporate Member, the company must be involved in the preparation of claims, responses to claims, determination of claims, the management of claims, adjudication or dispute management, or must contain specialised departments or divisions that handle claims on behalf of third parties.

Specialised claims consultancies or companies that provide claim services, as part of a wider scope of consultancy services, would fall into this category.

ICCP CORPORATE MEMBER

The ICCP recognises that qualifying Corporate Members may consist of small sole-proprietor organisations through to large international consultancies. Corporate Members may therefore design a membership package to suit their own organisation.
